Poetry.

A Dream.

BY F. S. PROCTOR.

As lately in my sleep, I had a pleasant dream,
I heard the tramp of steeds, and saw the bayonet gleam
I heard the rattling of the drums, and then the victor's shout,
I saw the bloody battle fields, beheld the fleeing rout,
And indistinct upon my brain, those images, so rare,
Were photographed by soul force, and lo! here they are:
I dreamed the great Napoleon, had risen from the dead,
And Europe, stood agast, and all her kings had fled;
As indistinct my memory shapes the hazed and misty scene;
I beg the reader, recollect, it was nothing but a dream.
The Emperor stalked before my bed, he trampled upon the floor,
I but repeat his murmurings, I can now do no more;
Crossed were his hands, behind his back, and often from his vest,
The Emperor took a pinch, and thus his views expressed:

"See o'er the wide Atlantic, a Republic plants her flag.
From New England's rocky coast, to Oregon's battling crag,
The sons of toil from the old world, an ever flowing stream,
They leave their boyhood's joyous homes, for land and gold they dream.
But like the mirage of the desert, that leads the stranger on,
They clasp the Goddess Liberty, and find that she has flown.
Equality is a lovely coquette, who woos her charms and blushes
Will always find himself like Moses, alone amid the rushes.
Order is heaven's first law, and rules each human breast,
Hence some are, and must be, always greater than the rest.
The human system, in the heart, finds all its vital force
It ramifies its influence, throughout the body's course,
The body strong and vigorous, exerts its strength and aim,
And yet a ruler sits enthroned and reigns within the brain.

In all ages and regions, man's passions have combined,
To forge the galling fetters, by which he is confined.
The solar system, but reflects the organic law of life.
One central power must ever rule, or anarchy or strife;
Strength diffused—is only weak, it restrains no foreign foe,
It warms but petty tyrants, to strike a weakening blow.
The mountain stands upon its base, lone, grand and seen afar,
Its shadow stamps the little hills, their importance to mar,
The time will come, as come it must, some Cyrus or a Cæsar,
Will seize your weakened state, and power and grandeur give her,
Strike from your body politic, that self-inflated notion.
That every ignorant voter, swims a whale within the ocean,
The dull cancer of Democracy, its selfishness and hate,
Where stand upon one level plain, the good, the bad and great.

You have an ignorant, sensless mass, its atoms aggregate,
Give it but cohesion and then you give it weight;
Then hurl all its social forces, to urge man's slow advance,
This my early dream, alas! poor fallen France."
Such were Napoleon's words, as he tramped upon my floor,
I noticed that at Grant's name, he always swore the more,
But what he said, it will not do, at present to expose,
I fear my radic-friends might class me 'mong their foes.
Leads he? the conscript swarms again, from France's hornet nest.
And Albion's anchored isle, no more, no longer can protest.
In snow clad icy realms, the Russian keeps in rest his lance,
Like the tiger in his jungle, never sleeps his restless glance,
Baffled from the Basphorus, Asia ope's her sunny plains;
England confronted once again, slowly counts her golden gains.

The Cossack, leaves his icy home, feels his impulses change,
A child of the distant orient, expands his mental range,
In warmer air, his galling fetters, dropping one by one
He worships no longer the setting, but hails the rising sun,
The scale of Empire, once again, is in the balance weighed;
And sinks the mistress of the seas, a phantom, and a shade,
"I led the charge at Austerlitz, and Lodi's famous bridge
Like sheep, the scattered Austrians at Marengo s ridge,
Borodina's thunders shake, the Russian in his lair,
I was conquered by the elements, the snowey flakes in air.
Moscow gave her horded gains, and all her wealth of yore,
Ali was one vast ocean flame, and Moscow was no more
In the annals of our race, she has but gained a name.'
Vesuvious pales his fires, and quenchless Etna's tame.

What could I do? beat a retreat, 'twas almost a Waterloo,
Thick fell the flashes, like winding sheets, the fleecy falling snow.
The wild Cossack fell on my rear, like an avenging sprite
We fought him all the day, and then the cold at night,
My ranks were thinned like Alpine banks, before a July sun,
It was a sad and harrowing sight, as fell they one by one,
I bent me to the solemn task, but all was mad and vain,
Oh! never will my chosen braves, see their loved France again,
England may rule the stormy seas, her lightnings wake the deep
Her march be on the mountain wave, her home is in her fleet.
Her Gods are in her banking halls, there gloats she on her store,
But while I live she never shall set foot on Europe's shore,
Perfidious Albion, rears her head, a menace and a frown,
I'll blast her from her ocean bed, and then her sons shall drown'

I tell thee, fool, this world itself, is all too small for me,
I laugh to scorn my prison bounds, I burst them and am free,
What are your petty squables? a feather? or a rod?
I leave your earth in deep disgust, and go to meet my God.
How dare you think the barren isle, or ocean's waves can bind,
The master of the universe, the monarch of mankind;
My name is yet, a mighty power, among the sons of men,
Go! raise thy feeble voice, aloud, say, I have come again,
That lone St. Helena's isle, has rendered up its charge,
France is bristling all in arms,—the Emperor at large,
Thou think'st the lion was afar, lo! he has burst his chain
France, be the wetchword for to night, the answer, St. Helene,"
Pale grew the face of Bismark, as he sat within his room.
Fell the papers, from his hands, his brow was marked with gloom,
Trembling, he quaked in fear, for who could meet the glance;
Of him who reared, mid Russian snows, the daring flag of France,
King William springs from his bed, he rushes through the door,
"Was that a phantom, or a man? there standing on the floor"
Throughout the palace halls, then spread the utmost wild affright,
And all was consternation, in Berlin, on that awful night,
The rumor ran from man to man, that good old king Fritz,
Had seen the boots of Lodi's bridge, the hat of Austerlitz,
From Jena's battle field, the dead, it was reported fled,
And the grand army marching on, Napoleon at its head.
Bismark affrighted, left all his papers on the floor,
He only took a sausage, and was seen no more.
I cannot paint the picture now, my very eyes grow dim,
No rivers stop the Germans, they plunge in for a swim,
But who shall till the German fields, or drink the good old lager,
Deserted is each hamlet now, you never meet a neighbor,
Remember this is all a dream, if you grow any wiser,
Why read this poem to your wife, and don't forget to kiss her.

Selected Story.

The Doctor and the Dressmaker

BY BELLA FRENCH.

The Doctor came first to our village. He was a tall, dark sour looking individual, a little on the shady side of forty. He called himself a widower, and was rather handsome too, but for all that the girls failed to set their caps for him, as is generally the case where single gentlemen take up their abode in our place.

I don't think that he got many patients at first, for all he had a sign with A. M. Rose, M. D., in gilded letters, above the door of his office.

He had not been in our village more than a month when Mrs. Wiggins, the dressmaker, arrived, and fitted up a shop just opposite the doctor's office.

The dressmaker was also tall and dark, but unlike the Doctor, she had a peaked nose and sharp black eyes.

They were a strange pair, for, though they never spoke to each other's acquaintance, they took care to throw themselves in each other's way, and by their actions to show their contempt for each other.

If the doctor chanced to be passing the dressmaker's shop slam would go the door in his face, and if the dressmaker chanced to be passing the doctor's office the worthy M. D., would turn away as though disgusted beyond measure.

People soon saw the two were trying to annoy each other, and some of the mischievously inclined resolved to help them.

One morning we were all astonished at seeing the doctor and dressmaker had exchanged signs. This made considerable sport, for neither of the two seemed to know anything about the matter, and of course no one took the trouble to inform either.

Now it happened on that day that a couple of strangers came into our village from the country. They had been married but a few weeks, and the fond husband, as soon as he came to town, purchased a nice dress for his bride.

"I think Charles," she said, "that I will have it cut by a dressmaker before going home, for I might not get the chance again for a month."

"Very well, my love," returned the husband. "There is one just ahead of us; you can step in there."

"And there is a doctor's sign on the other side, Charles. While I am getting my dress cut you can drop in at the doctor's and get that medicine for Mr. Groff."

"So I can, Julia, for I am glad that you reminded me of it, or I should have forgotten it."

And the two parted, one going into the doctor's office with her dress, and the other into the dressmaker's shop to procure some medicine.

"Hem!" coughed the latter, bowing before Mrs. Wiggins; "is your husband at home, madam?"

"And pray who told you I had a husband, sir?" was asked in return.

"Hem! a mistake—your brother, I mean," apologized the young man.

"My brother? I have no brother."

"Well, it is the doctor I wish to see, madam."

"The doctor, sir! Do you mean to insult me?"

"Why, no. I saw the sign and"—

"You must be drunk!" she exclaimed, indignantly; "mine is a dressmaker's sign."

"I beg your pardon, madam, but let me request you to read for yourself, and you will find that"—

"As if I don't know what is on my own sign?" she interrupted, rising hastily and going to the door.

"The wretch!" she cried, as her eyes rested on the doctor's name. "To think that he dared do such a thing! I'll tear his eyes out!"

While this interesting scene was being enacted at the dressmaker's, another no less so was transpiring at the doctor's.

When Julia left her husband, she tripped up stairs and knocked lightly at the door of the doctor's office.

The worthy M. D. answered the summons in person.

Supposing him to be the husband of the dressmaker, she made known her business at once, by saying, "I came sir, to have a dress cut."

"A dress cut? he repeated in astonishment. "I don't cut dresses."

"Ah sir, I beg pardon, I thought that Mrs. Wiggins resided here."

"Mrs. Wiggins! No indeed, ma'am.—that amiable person holds forth on the other side of the street. Though if you don't want your dress spoiled you better keep away from her."

"Doesn't she have any sign," asked the little lady wonderingly.

"Why yes, don't you see it?"

The doctor popped out his head, but instead of reading Mrs. Wiggins, he read A. M. Rose, M. D.

"Thunder and lightning?" he exclaimed, "she has been stealing my sign!"

"And you have been stealing hers, judging from the name at the door," returned Julia.

Down went the doctor in a heat of passion, and giving one glance at the dressmakers sign, he tore it from its fastenings, and bearing it in his hands made his way across the street, at the very moment that Mrs. Wiggins made the discovery of his sign hanging at her door.

"How dare you, madam"—he cried, "how dare you play such a trick on me?" throwing the bit of painted tin at her feet.

"How dare you play such a trick on me" she exclaimed in turn, grasping the sign which hung at her door, and casting it at him with all her might.

"I, madam; wouldn't pick up your sign in the street, so don't imagine that I would put at my door."

"And I would as quick touch a snake as anything bearing your name!"

"A weak subterfuge, madam."

"A weak subterfuge sir."

"If you put your sign at my door again, I shall throw it into the street, madam."

"If you put your sign at my door again I will put it into the fire sir."

"And you need not mind gaping at me all the time from your window. Your face is not so attractive, as to charm me, though goodness knows I can never look out but I see it the first thing."

"Which proves sir that you are looking for it. Indeed you are always sprawling out before that window, and if I try to keep my eyes away you will bark, to take notice of you."

"I am not a dog madam, though you must be a cat, judging from the way you purr about your customers. I detest cats."

"Not more than I detest you sir."

"I want none of your slang."

"And I want none of yours."

"Go into the house and mind your business, don't you see what a great crowd your long tongue is drawing here?"

"It is your own tongue that is calling them this way."

"I should think that it was both of your tongues, said the farmer.

"Indeed!" exclaimed Mrs. Wiggins, flouncing into the house.

"Indeed!" echoed the doctor, turning away in disdain.

"I think dear," said the farmer to his wife, "that we will go elsewhere for what we wish."

"Yes, Charles, I will not patronize either of them."

And the young wife took her husband's arm and the two walked away from the crowd of tittering villagers.

This incident was the town talk for a whole week, and, in the meantime, the people made up their mind that Mrs. Wiggins and Dr. Rose must be in some way related, but how they could not decide.

All were anxious to learn something of the two consequently the doctor found more patients and the dressmaker more work in their line, than either would have otherwise.

But the mischievous one who had changed the signs had succeeded so well in making sport that he resolved to try again. Accordingly, one morning, the dressmaker received the following note:

"Will the fair Mrs. Wiggins pardon the writer of this epistle for daring to address her? He has seen and admired her, and wishing to make her acquaintance, takes this way to introduce himself.

"If the fair Mrs. Wiggins is inclined to look favorably on his suit, she will please address a reply to

Hers truly,
"A. P. BLAIRE."

And the same morning that the dressmaker received the above, the doctor came in possession of a neat, perfumed note, which informed him that a lady of that village had become charmed with his personal appearance and wished to open a correspondence with him. The note was signed "Agnes Avery,"

Of course both these epistles were answered, and both answers fell into the hands of the funny man who happened to be the clerk of the postoffice.

A correspondence between him and the two followed, which of course was very amusing; but he was obliged to end it at last, for both the doctor and dressmaker were anxious for an interview; she, with the Adolphus who had become enamored by her charms, and he with the fair lady who felt such an interest in him.

The correspondence had been carried on about three weeks, when one day the dressmaker received a letter full of love and such nothings, but which ended thus:

"I wish very much to see you, dear Mrs. Wiggins, but the doctor over the way keeps such a sharp watch that I have been fearful lest he has a prior claim. Indeed, he has been known to declare that he would murder the man who would dare marry you. So you see, my love, we must be very careful. I will await you to-night at precisely 8 o'clock, on the road near the one mile bridge. Come disguised, for fear the doctor might be following. Wear a blue vail and I shall know you. Goodby until then dearest lady. From your admirer,

A. P. BLAIRE."

While Mrs. Wiggins was gazing smiling upon the bit of note paper which she held before her, the Doctor sat in his office, reading the following:

"As you seem to be so anxious for an interview, I have resolved to grant you one to-night. Meet me at eight o'clock on the road near the one-mile bridge; I shall come disguised, and wish you to do the same, for fear that we may be watched. I will wear a blue vail, and you may put a rose in your cap. Thus each may recognize the other without trouble.

"Till to-night good-by. A. A."

The Doctor rubbed his hand as he finished reading.

"I am glad!" he exclaimed; "glad that everything happened just as it did; glad that we had the quarrel; yes, glad about everything."

That evening the Doctor left his office precisely at half past seven o'clock, and took his way toward the one-mile bridge.

"I will be there early," he mused as he walked along. "It is very uncomfortable for a lady to have to wait out on a lonely road at night, and then she might be noticed."

Fifteen minutes after the doctor had left his office the dressmaker, attired in a suit of deep mourning glided out of her shop and took her way up the road in the samedirection that the doctor had taken.

"I have the blue veil safe in my pocket," she said to herself, "but I will not put it on until I get beyond the village, for fear I may attract attention. I do wonder what sort of a chap that Blaire is? A good looking one I dare say, and if he is well to do in the world, I shall cease to regret that quarrel with—pshaw, I never did regret it."

On she walked in the soft summer twilight, thinking of the past, the present, and the future.

It was nearly a mile to the bridge, and the shadows had deepened, and the stars had come out in the clear sky above, ere she reached the trysting place. At last a bend in the road brought her in sight of the bridge and also of the doctor, who was walking along momentarily expecting to greet the lady who had become so interested in him.

As soon as Mrs. Wiggins distinguished the form of a man in the road before her, she thought of her veil, and, taking it from her pocket, she threw it over her bonnet.

As the doctor observed the token of recognition, he rushed forward with extended hands exclaimed:

"My dear Agnes, this meeting gives me the greatest of pleasure!"

"Agnes!" echoed Mrs. Wiggins mentally. "Surely the man must be going crazy. My name is not Agnes and I never signed myself so in the world. However, I will not pretend to notice the mistake, for mistake it must be." Then aloud, "I am sure Mr. Blaire that the meeting is as great a pleasure to myself as to you, and—"

"Mr. whom did you say?" interrupted the Doctor.

"Why, Mr. Blaire of course," returned his companion.

"I fear you are making game of me Miss Avery."

"My name is not Miss Avery."

And mine is not Mr. Blaire."

""But you wear the blue veil, madm."

"And you told me to wear it, sir."

"I told you to wear it?" Why you informed me that you would wear it yourself, and desired me to wear a rose, as I have done."

"You are mistaken, sir."

"I tell you that you are the one who is mistaken."

"And are you not Mr. Blaire?"

"No but you must be Miss Avery."

"I tell you I am not."

"Ah! now I recognize your voice. How could I be mistaken when hearing the squeaking voice of Bess Wiggins."

And how could I be mistaken when hearing the bear like growl of that detestable Doctor Rose?"

"Madam, this is a piece of impudence which I will never forgive. How dare you write to me?"

"How dared you write to me? I never would have answered the letter if I had supposed Mr. Blaire and you were the same?"

"How dared you address yourself to me under a false name?"

"I did not address you under a false name, but you addressed yourself to me under a false name."

Here a giggle, which came from a clump of bushes near at hand, startled the two.

"Ha! we are watched," exclaimed the odctor.

"Say, rather, that we are the victims of a stupid joke," said Mrs. Wiggins.

"Why some one must have been writing to both of us."

"Zounds, I believe that you are right. They are even now enjoying our discomfiture."

"And I shall not dare to show my face in the village again."

And Mrs. Wiggins began to cry.

Her tears seem to affect the doctor, who said after a pause:

"Bess, I have often thought that we were very foolish to quarrel on our wedding night."

"So have I," she sobbed, "but it was you who run away."

"I know it, but I loved you, else I should not have followed you."

"True, so you must. Strange the thought never occurred to me before.—Why didn't you tell me."

"Me tell you Why it would have been very unladylike."

"So it would. Of what was I thinking, I say, Bess. I am glad some one took the busines in hand for us. Aren't you?"

"And now let us commence where we left off on the night we quarrled—or in other words let us go back to the village and unite our destinies as we once intended to do."

"But you will not get angry and run off again if I chance to wear a rose given to me by another gentleman. Will you?"

"No Bess, neither will you wear a rose given to you by another gentleman. Take off your blue veil and accept my arm, and we will walk back to the village."

The dressmaker did as she was requested and the two walked away together.

The next morning there was a marriage in our village, and before night the dressmaker's sign was down, or rather replaced by another, whose neat gilded letters were so arranged that the

INVENTIONS IN THE SOUTH.

In our last issue we prepared and published a short article on "Inventions." Since then we have seen an article in the Plantation, a Georgia agricultural journal, in which this subject is referred to. In speaking of the dearth of invention hitherto shown in the Southern States, the editor asserts that the "earth does not hold a more restless, active, energetic, thinking man than the middle-country Southerner," and that they will hergafter produce "in rapid succession, inventions of permanent utility to man."

We are glad to hear this from an authority evidently familiar with the subject spoken of, and in the truth expressed thereby lies the germ of marvelous promise to the South. When the genius of her people shall be turned to the utilization of the minerals laden, and as yet almost unsought for, beneath her soil, the timber that grows untouched in her forests, and the water-power that now wastes itself in picturesque tumbling over the crags of her valleys, it will take but a little while to attain a thrift, far nobler in itself and honored by the world, than was ever the luxuriant but idle prosperity of a score of years ago.

It is especially desirable that the work of devising new machinery to meet the peculiarities of Southern industries should be done by Southern men. The inventive skill of Northern mechanics can supply devices to fulfil any demand with nature of which they are familiar. But the conditions under which machinery in the region referred to must be used are so different from those obtained in the Northern, Eastern, and Western sections of the country, that no experience, however thorough gained in these last would be of use in elaborating improvements for use in the other. We believe that there is room for hundreds of new inventions applicable to agriculture, arts, manufactures in the Southern States, and the sooner these are produced by the energy and talent of the people thereof, the better will it be.

NORTH CAROLINA'S FUTURE.

The longer we live here and the more we see of North Carolina the more thoroughly are we impressed with the fact that she has within herself elements of wealth and strength that need nothing but capital coupled with enterprize to render her the peer of the most prosperous States in the Union. Like the rest of the Southern States the war left her stripped, crippled and prostrate. But the war is over. She is already recuperating. She is improving and advancing, and that more rapidly than most people abroad have any conception of. During the past two years an impetus has been imparted to her trade, to her internal improvements and to her business generally that is encouraging to those who earnestly desire her development and prosperity. The number of her native citizens who begin to comprehend her necessities and capacities are increasing, and they are trying to do something in the right direction; and these are materially aided by industrious, sagacious and energetic immigrants from the thrifty Northern States who have located within her borders, and who are forwarding their own interest by promoting hers.

And it is these men—the men of progress, native and adopted—who have the destiny of North Carolina in their hands. Active, vigorous and sanguine, they mean BUSINESS. They intend to move on—to go forward. DEVELOPMENT is their battle cry, and ENTERPRIZE the watch word. The old must give way to the NEW. The large uncultivated bodies of land must be divided up into small farms and subjected to the improved agriculture of the age. Instead of sending our raw material abroad we must build manufactories of all sorts right where the raw produce is so abundantly grown. Railroads must be built, ramifying all through the Common wealth. In short, until we have a commerce commensurate with our vast resources of land and water the true friends of North Carolina will not rest satisfied, nor will the State be what she ought to be.

The Asheville Pioneer presents the name of Hon. JOHN POOL as the next Republican candidate for Vice President. We doubt whether the people of North Carolina are ready or willing to spare him from the United States Senate. He is one of the ablest and most efficient members of that body and the country cannot yet afford to lose his services there.

WILLIAM B. STOKES, formerly a member of Congress from Tennessee and latterly a Revenue officer, is charged with the abstraction of Government funds and has been arrested. He will be energetically prosecuted, and if found guilty promptly punished. The Republican party does not endure official robberies.

THE SUCCESS OF THE ADMINISTRATION.

It is now a clearly settled fact that the Administration of President GRANT is beyond all praise in the two most important departments which in times of peace are under a Chief Magistrates control. Its financial management has been such a splendid success that the only criticism of his enemies is that its success has been too great. They charge that the debt is being paid too rapidly, for getting that the country is prospering under the policy of honestly paying our creditors. The revenue was never more economically collected and never have defaulters been more vigorously punished.

The other department of Government to which a Presidents must give especial attention is the enforcement of the laws, and it is cheering to see the vigor with which Gen. GRANT is doing his duty, even where it is embarassing to do it. Where the laws are forcibly resisted by armed bands he has not hesitated to take extreme measures to suppress the lawless Ku Klux bands. And now in Utah he is doing what no Administration has ever dared to do before. He allows no temporizing policy. He makes no terms with law breakers, but enforces the law without regard on whom it may fall. No wonder his Administration has the respect and confidence of the civilized world.

THE DEMOCRATIC ADDRESS.

The Democratic leaders of this State have had a caucus at Raleigh. After an inharmonious session, in the name of the "Central Executive Committee of the Democratic party," they have issued an address to the people. It is a document of some length and like most of the emenations from that source it is an attempt to throw dust in the people's eyes in order to divest them from the real issues before the country. The truth is, they were "hard pushed," recent events having placed them in an unenviable position before the people of the State and nation. The address starts out with trying to excuse their recent defeat. Its authors attempt to explain it away, but it is as great a failure as was their effort at revolution in August. The peace and law and order loving citizens of North Carolina understand this matter very well, and they have no sort of patience with any special pleading in palliation of the unjustifiable course pursued. Rebuked and beaten, the Committee now propose trying the Legislature method. This is coming over on to our platform. When changes are made in the Constitution this is a proper way to make them. As for the sweeping changes asked for we shall have something to say in future issues of the NORTH CAROLINIAN.

In their allusions to the finances of the State the Committee are not very intelligible. They accuse the Republicans of ruining the credit of the State, and yet an amendment of the Constitution is demanded to facilitate the repudiation of the public debt! To use their own words:

Section 6 of Article 1 should be so amended as to strike out all thereof that provides the inviolability of the public debt.

As to the charges of fraud, they have become stale. They have repeatedly been made, but never proven. If our memory serves us right the same THOMAS BRAGG whose name appears as Chairman to this address was a short time ago Chairman of a Committee charged with the duty of investigating these matters. He made a report in which he declared the parties n ot guilty. The one ought to be a sufficient answer to the other.

The elaborate apology for the K-Klux Klan will not tend to increase for the party either the respect or confidence of the people. It would have been better to have followed the example of "the lawyers"—confessing their sins and promising to do so no more forever!

In their allusions to national politics they directly slap the old line Whigs in the face! They now admit that the "Conservative" dodge was only a lure and a snare. They openly declare themselves to be Democrats—their organization henceforth to be in harmony with the National Democratic Party. That they were drifting into that port we knew and so asserted in these columns. They have got there at last. How many of our old Whig friends propose going with them?

THE COLORED PEOPLE ON LIBERIA.

In the Colored Convention recently held at Columbia, S. C. the following preamble and resolution was adopted. We commend it to the careful consideration of our colored friends in this State:

"Whereas, in some sections of the South designing partisans are endeavoring to promote a feeling of discord among the colored people, and are using every effort to induce them to leave the land of their birth and emigrate to Liberia and other foreign sections therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Convention do deprecate any such movements on the part of the colored people of the South, and regard this effort as emanating from a few unscrupulous and irresponsible men; enemies to the colored race, who are working for political purposes, without any regard to the political or social welfare of the colored people."

A Grand Reception to

Senator Pool.

His friends, Neighbors and Fellow Citizens Fully endorse him.

A FAITHFUL PUBLIC SERVANT SUSTAINED AND APPLAUDED.

Appropriate Speeches &c, &c.

After an absence of over nine months, confined at the National capitol by pressing official duties, Hon. John Pool, United States Senator, arrived home on Tuesday evening of this week. He was met at the landing by a large crowd of his friends, neighbors and fellow citizens who were anxious to show their esteem for him as a citizen and their approval of his course as a public servant. On his getting off the boat he was welcomed by C. W. Grandy, Esq., in a speech as follows:

Senator Pool, your friends and supporters have assembled here this evening to receive and welcome you home.

We are rejoiced to meet and congratulate you for your noble and successful efforts in freeing North Carolina, our mother and home, from the most terrible and dishonorable pest that ever disgraced her soil.

While our people were being scourged maimed and murdered "for opinion sake" by midnight assassins, fiends in human shape, called Ku-Klux, but another name for the enemy of all humanity—while gloomy, dark and dismal clouds of a deep seated and secret rebellion were hovering over our political horizon threatening to plunge this fair land of ours in another revolution, we looked for succor and help in vain from our own State authorities which had been paralized for the time being by what seemed to us for the moment to be higher power.

By that course of procedure, encouragement was given to those marauders; they were excited to commit crime with impunity and it was feared by the best friends of this government that another rebellion more terrible than the last was soon to be inaugurated.

But honor be to the names of those patriots in Congress who came to our aid and support and passed stringent laws to punish those criminals. And knowing as well as we do that you, Sir, was foremost in this good work; that your efforts have been crowned with success; that North Carolina has been freed from the grasp of those midnight monsters; that peace law and order have been restored to our homes through your instrumentality, aided by your friends in Congress and the friends of this government, and that shortly the whole country will be freed from these wicked men, we return to you our heartfelt gratitude for the course you have pursued, and say:

"Well done thou good and faithful servant."

return to your friends and home in peace. We do not stand alone in our high appreciation of your public services. You have a grateful country that will ever hold you in dear remembrance for the same. We have every reason to believe that but for the firm and decided action taken by Congress in passing laws for the suppressing of the Ku Klux, that ere now this fair and peaceable land of ours would have been stained with the blood of some of our best citizens.

Lastly permit me to say in behalf of this vast assemblage, that whenever the occasion requires we will manifest our high appreciation of your public services, and especially the course you have pursued in bringing to justice those wild wicked men who lost sight of the requirments of the law and murdered our peaceable citizens.

Again we welcome you to your friends and home in peace.

The distinguished recipient responded in a short though pithy and interesting speech, as follows:

My services in the Senate, for the last eight months, have been such as duty impartially demanded. They drew upon me most violent denunciation from those whose wicked plans I was endeavoring to defeat. There has been very little that is bad left unsaid of me. But, at no time, did I fear that you who have known me from childhood, and who understand my character fully, would believe the slanders of my enemies. I expected of you an honest and sober judgement upon my course. Yet, the enthusiastic demonstration, to-night, exceeds all that I had any right to expect. It is said to-night that events have already vindicated me before the people of the whole country. I am not so sure that I can flatter myself so far as to suppose such to be the case. Falsehood travels so much more rapidly than truth that nothing but time and sober second thought can be relied upon to do entire justice to our public men, who take advanced positions against popular errors, and boldly planned schemes of wrong There has never been a time, when I did not feel entire confidence that I should be completely vindicated before the whole people. I had an abiding confidence in the people of North Carolina, especially. They have seemed to realize and rightly judge the situation, earlier than I expected, and I feel a proud satisfaction that it is so. But to you, the friends of my earlier days, my neighbors and old acquaintances, I am obliged to feel, as I do to no others, words are not necessary to make you understand the impression this demonstration makes upon me. There is always a deep and inexpressible pleasure in the conciousness of having discharged ones duty faithfully. It is gratifying to have the fact acknowledged and appreciated by our fellow men. But in the manifest appreciation and good opinion of old friends there is something that strikes deeper and moves the heart more, than anything that can come from strangers. It is that pleasure which you have given me to-night. I again assure you that I value and appreciate the honor you do me, and I leave you to-night, to take you by the hand to-morrow in the sincereity of personal friendship.

He was then taken to a carriage and escorted by a Band of Music to his home, followed by several hundred of our citizens and a large torch light procession. The streets were illuminated with bonfires. On arriving at his residence another address of welcome was made by Dr. John, editor of the "North Carolinian," who spoke as follows:

SENATOR: I have been requested by your friends and neighbors to say a few words on this occasion expressive of their feelings towards you on your arrival from your post of duty at the National Capitol. I do so most cheerfully because I feel that we can all say, and say it from our hearts, welcome, THRICE WELCOME HOME.

As our leading representative in the National Congress we have watched your course very closely, and while we have always had confidence in you your recent public services has increased that confidence. It has been your fortune to be called to your present high position during a critical period of our nations history, and especially in the history of these Southern States. It was a time requiring sagacity and courage as well as patriotism. And I am frank to say that so far as you were concerned some of us felt no little anxiety. Not that we at all doubted your ability, or your integrity, or your devotion to the great interest of North Carolina, but our observation had taught us that public men even the purest and best, do not always get credit for good intentions or good works, and that the verdict of history is too apt to be rendered in favor only of those who succeed; and realizing that the diabolical Ku Klux organization in this and other Southern States was more formidable and more dangerous than the country believed, or the Government itself supposed, we feared that neither the people nor the authorities of the nation could be sufficiently awakened to the danger to be willing to employ the measures for its suppression which you had the foresight and courage to propose. And had they failed we feared that both you and free government in the South would fall with them! But you did not fail. You labored earnestly, faithfully and persistently. Feeling that momento s issues were involved in the struggle—that the future of free government in these Southern States, aye in this nation was at stake, you spared no effort. Not withstanding misrepresentation and abuse you kept straight on in the path of duty, and to-day you stand before the people of the State and country most triumphantly vindicated. Through the agency of the national legislation you took so conspicuous a part in enacting a state of facts have been exposed that has startled the civilized world, and to day there is not an honest man of any intelligence in the whole State from Currituck to Cherokee who doesn't approve your course, many of them now endorsing the very acts so recently most vehemently condemned. Aye, you are vindicated, and while it is natural that you should not feel very uncomfortable at the result I assure you it is especially gratifying to your neighbors and friends here assembled to night.

Nor do we forget the part taken in behalf of those measures by Hon. Mr. COBB in the lower House of Congress. He had his share of insult and abuse for daring to speak and vote and act for the suppression of the system of organized outrage and murder that was fast making our good old State a byeword and a reproach. We have not forgotten that he was the only man in the entire North Carolina delegation in his branch of Congress that raised his voice in vindication of the fair fame and good name of of Our State and in defence of the dearest rights enjoyed by free men in a free Republic! It was my privelege as it was my duty as a public journalist to sustain and defend both him and our distinguished Senator from the envenomed assaults of those who were trying to hound them down. I predicted that they would triumph and that thier vile slanderers would quail and hide to escape the pit they were opening for themselves. The prediction is already being verified. The Democratic lawyers are on their knees confessing and begging for mercy; prominent leaders of the conspiracy are fleeing, fugitives from justice, while yet others are reaping their reward in solitary confinement in the Penitentiary of a distant State! Truly these chickens are coming home early to roost!

It is an easy matter, fellow citizens, for public men to swim along with the current, but when they are willing to risk reputation, the good opinion of friends and to sacrifice personal ease to sustain and vindicate eternal principles; when they are willing to meet opposition and persecution and abuse to defend the rights of the people and protect the weak and defenseless they show a moral heroism that all good men should emulate and applaud, and it is due on all proper ocasions that such faithful public servants should have demonstrative evidence that their constituents appreciate their services.

And fellow citizens but for the efforts of the distinguished townsman we feel so proud in honoring to-night where would we have been. Just think of the deplorable condition of affairs existing in our State. The secret oath bound banditti, known as the Ku-Klux Klan, was extending itself further and wider in all directions. An organization so monstrous, so devilish, so fiendish in its purposes and operations, it was spreading consternation and terror among the people. Not only were our elections in many parts of the State becoming a farce so far as any expression of the popular will was concerned, but the State itself was rapidly passing into the hands of the enemies of the Government. It is true that here in this District we did not so much feel the baneful effects elsewhere experienced in the State. But how long would we have escaped? Indeed, in one respect we did suffer. The tide of immigration so successfully opened up, and which was so much benefiting us, suddenly ceased. Northern men began to hesitate about coming into a State threatened with so much danger, and capital was too prudent to venture where there was so much risk. But for this we might have had a thousand more families from the North settled among us improving, developing and reclaiming our waste places, and a hundred thousand dollars more of capital circulating among us giving life and activity to business and trade. I know whereof I affirm, and as an adopted citizen of your State whose interests now are all here and whose future is identified with her future, I felt these things keenly. But thank God, the rubicon is passed. The darkest days are over, and to our Senator and Member of Congress we feel that we are deeply indebted for the brighter future that now seems to be opening before us.

I close as I began and say on behalf of your neighbors and friends WELCOME HOME.

Dr. John having concluded, the Senator said:

At this late hour of the night, standing in the open air, cold and with no opportunity for anyone to be seated, it cannot be expected that any elaborate discussion of public affairs can take place. Yet you seem to insist on hearing a speech from me. The interest you manifest can be but partially responded to. North Carolina honored me with a seat in the American Senate in a time of much uncertainty and trouble. While I know no section of my country above another the condition of the Southern States was necessarily a matter of peculiar solicitude. The results of the war had left the Southern people prostrate in all their national interests. Disorder and confusion were added—an uncertainty as to the future weighed heavily upon the minds of all observing men. I believed our true interest and only safety consisted in a manly and prompt acquisence in the result of events and in being in full accord with the national government. To the accomplishment of this I have mainly directed my efforts. It would have him fully accomplished long ago, but for the disturbing elements of secession hatred and the disorders which have grown out of it. The organization of a conspiracy to substitute local violence in the place of the great constitutional guarantees of liberty and equality, was a crime hardly less monstrous and fanatical than the original rebellion. It is strange that any thinking man could have supposed that this great nation would permit it to be carried out. In the XIV Amendment to the Constitution there had been incorporated an express declaration of American citizenship. It carried with it incident rights, and claimed primary allegiance from every citizen to the National Government. Protection was as plainly a duty of the government to the citizen as was allegiance of the citizen to the Government. The Constitution was made distinctly to declare, that no state should deny to the citizen the equal protection of the laws. But the Ku Klux organization was outraging, by the wholesale, every right of American citizenship, and the States, either from inability, inadvertance or other cause, had failed to punish the offenders, and protect the citizen—and thus had wholly denied to a large class the equal protection of the laws. Congress was empowered to carry into force and effect the constitutional guarantee by appropriate legislation. The power of the National government was beyond question, and its duty and disposition to discharge it were equally beyond question. The State courts having failed I advised that the State military be called in to aid in the discharge of the primary duty of the States and thus avoid the necessity from further national interposition in their affairs. But in North Carolina, this not only failed but resulted in making matters decidedly worse. The interposition of the National authority then become indispensible. I urged that the Federal Courts be first tried, and the military power be held back until the last resort. Congress finally adopted this course and passed the necessary legislation. I wished North Carolina to have the opportunity of showing that we had enough good men in it to execute the laws of the Union through the courts of the Union. And we are now showing it to the full satisfaction of the whole country. While the habeas corpus has to be suspended in another State, and military power freely used, we are escaping the necessity for it in our State, by bringing criminals to justice before the Federal Courts and aiding in the due execution of the laws. It is said that hundreds are flying from the military in South Carolina. But why do so many hundreds fly from the civil courts in North Carolina? Innocent men never fly from justice. The future looks brighter. I hope to see soon, law and order restored and power and prosperity dawn upon us. Let law and order be secured in the South, and immigration will pour in as it has done into the North Western States. Let it come. It will bring capital, enterprise and energy with it. We want, all over the South such men as Dr. John and those who have come with him here. Yankee energy, yankee education and intelligence. Yankee thrift and industry are what the South needs to build up her waste places. Every true friend of the South welcomes such men.

In all that I have done as a Senator, I have looked only to a firm and faithful discharge of every duty. Personal considerations were not to be thought of, in the midst of the grave responsibilities of my official position. When abused and slandered, I have remained silent and trusted to that sense of right and justice which has ever characterized the people of North Carolina, for my vindication in due time. I have unbounded confidence in the sober wisdom and virtue of our people. Let them but understand what is right and good, and they will embrace and honor it. Bandying rough words, and having personal controversies with slanderers and malignants was not what the people of North Carolina expected or desired from their Senator—when the gravest of duties were demanding his unremitted attention and thought. You, my friends, have watched my course with more solicitude, perhaps, than others. You endorse it and applaud me, and so I believe will the entire State.

But I cannot leave you without bearing witness to the faithfulness and virtues of the President of the United States. The South has no better friend than Gen. Grant. The true and good men of the South may confidently rely upon him in every emergency. There is no man in this nation, who has the true interest of the Southern people more at heart than he has. Time will prove the truth of what I say, so plainly that his worst enemies will soon acknowledge it. When I say this of the President I speak what I know.

And now I bid you good-night. May the peace and prosperity that is dawning upon us receive no further check from folly and fanaticism. May we all live to see liberty and law—good order and contentment cover us with their blessings and give their promises for our children.

The Senator was frequently applauded and, on the conclusion of his speech, three cheers were given him, also three cheers for President Grant, when, after music by the Band, the enthusiastic crowd quietly dispersed to their homes.

On Saturday week, in Harnett county Mrs. Governor Worth met with a serious accident. Mrs. Worth was on a visit to a married daughter, Mrs. McNeill, and about noon was examining a cotton press on the plantation, and while witnessing the operation of packing cotton she made a misstep and fell from the platform to the ground, a distance of twelve feet. In falling, the right arm of the lady came in contact with a sill, breaking the arm. In the fall Mrs. Worth received other injuries, some internally, but they are not serious, and the lady will recover.

The Washington Chronicle says: News received here from officials in North Carolina is to the effect that the ku-klux organization is being unearthed and broken up in several counties in the western part of the State, and many arrests have been made by the authorities. The order exists in Buncombe, Madison, Yancey, Haywood, and Jackson counties, situated west of the Blue Ridge mountains, and many members have come forward and confessed, among the number several prominent citizens. Assistant District Attorney Lusk has been ordered to Asheville to aid the Commissioner in the discharge of his duties.

Local and Personal.

☞Court in Edenton next week.

☞The reipts of the late colored Fair at this place amounted to one hundred dollars.

☞Several articles of interest appear, as usual, on our first page this week. Read them.

☞Our Streets are now lit up at night. CHARLES S. DAVIS has the contract.

☞There are more houses needed in the City. The supply is not equal to the demand.

☞The Baptists are having their Church at this place repainted. Another improvement.

☞Wanted—several thousand pounds of Fodder. We will pay cash for it if delivered soon.

☞We call special attention to the "Commercial Hotel," Goldsboro, N. C., advertised in this issue.

☞J. C. EHRINGHAUSE has moved his Grocery from Road Street to the store of J. J. GRANDY on Water Street.

☞Our townsman GEO. W. BELL has just returned from New York with a new stock in his line. GEORGE always keeps up with the times."

☞The mail route from Elizabeth City to Currituck C. H., has been awarded to JOHN J. BUTT at three hundred dollars per annum.

☞Our friend NATHAN TRUEBLOOD has left a few samples of Turnips at our office, the largest we have seen this season.

☞The Secretary of the Roanoke and Tar River Agricultural Society will accept our thanks for a complimentary ticket.

☞The large Schooner of the Land and Lumber Company has left for Philadelphia with another load of Lumber from their Mills.

☞Our enterprizing young townsman T. C. ALLEN is refitting up the building recently occupied by Mr. COHN and opening therein a Bakery and Confectionary Store.

☞Mr. J. J. GRANDY is the largest Corn Commission Merchant doing business at this place. We understand that he offers to pay within 5 cents of Baltimore prices for Corn.

☞If the man who spends ten cents a day for cigars, tobacco or ale, would avoid their use and spend half that amount for good newspapers, how greatly would he and his family be benefited. Reader! think of it.

☞The proceedings of the Town Commissioners were not handed in until too late for this issue. They have ordered the Constable to proceed within ten days from the 6th inst, to utterly demolish the Market House, if not removed before that time.

☞The Store of the Land and Lumber Company is doing a tremendeous business. In addition to an immense retail business their wholesale trade is large and increasing. Their sales frequently exceed one thousand dollars a day. We call that lively.

☞The effort made to establish a Democratic paper here under the title of "The Anti-Radical" having failed, an attempt is now being made to get up one to be called The Economist. We are assured by Mr. T. B. GARNER that the latter will be issued in January.

☞The protracted meeting of our Baptist friends at this place closed on Thursday evening last. Their efforts were attended with great success. The Pastor Rev. R. R. OVERBY was assisted by Rev. Mr. LUKE, of Hertford. On one day last week the ceremony of baptism was performed on twenty four persons.

☞Through the unremitting efforts of Hon. C. L. COBB the old mail route from Hatteras to Ocrocoke, this State, has been re-opened, and Miss FANNY WILLIS has been appointed Post Mistress at Hatteras, Contractor, FRANCIS WILLIAMS, at Ocrocoke. Through the same agency the old route from Goose Creek Island to Washington, N. C., has been reopened.

☞There are three kinds of men in the world—the "Wills, the Won'ts, and the Can'ts." The first effect everything, the others oppose everything. "I will" builds our railroads and steamboats; "I won't" don't believe in experiments and nonsense; while "I can't" grows weeds for wheat, and commonly ends his days in the slow digestion of bankruptcy.

☞The following is a list of Patents issued from the United States Patent Office to North Carolina Inventors, and each bearing date as follows. Furnished this paper by Cox & Cox, Solicitors of Patents, Washington, D. C. Oct. 10, Steam and Air Engine, J. F. Alexander, Shelby, Oct. 17, Propulsion of Canal Boats, P. F. Fontaine, Reidsville. Oct. 17, Corner for Photographic Plate Holders, J. L. Winner Elizabeth City. Oct. 17, Cultivator, A. C. Smith, Fayettville. Oct. 21, Door Check, J. Pool, Elizabeth City.

☞By advertisement it will be seen that the Board of Commissioners will receive bids for keeping the Poor House for 1872.

☞Chemists say that linen can be converted into sugar, but "Our Devil" says that he has seen the sweetest kind of "sugar"—in linen!

☞We see by the Wilmington papers that our townsman Mr. THOS. A. SYKES addressed a large meeting there one evening last week..

☞Our young friend JAMES P. GRANDY is commencing the mercantile business in the store at the Canal Bridge recently occupied by Capt. SMITH.

☞Among the Northern arrivals since our last we notice J. GARDINEER and family from Springville, N. Y.; and C. H. HOSTETTER from Wrightsville, Pa.

☞The communication of "Populus" is crowded out by a press of other matter. It will receive due attention in our next,

☞Hon. John Pool, Hon. K. R. Cobb Supervisor of Internal Revenue of Texas, and Hon. Geo. W. Brooks, Judge U. S. Circuit Court, are among our distinguished arrivals this week. They all arrived on Tuesday's boat.

☞Hon. THOS. J. JARVIS, Speaker of the North Carolina House of Representatives, gave us a call on Friday last. Barring his politics, which are about as bad as they can be, the Captain is what might be called "a jolly good fellow." We believe that he has some aspirations for Congress.

☞The trial of the men arrested on the charge of murdering THOS. E. MATHEWS in Gates county has been removed to Perquimans, and Tuesday the second week of Court in that county, which will be the 5th of December, has been fixed upon as the day for the trial to commence.

☞On Tuesday evening next an Entertainment will be given in Clark's Hall at this place by the "E. City, Benevolent Minstrel Troupe." The object is to raise funds to purchase fuel for the poor women and children of our town. Let there be a full house. Price of admission only Twenty-Five Cents.

It is said that if a puff of air were to be blown into a vein of an animal, death would instantaneously follow, because circulation would be stopped. The blood makes the entire circuit of the human body every seven minutes, and whenever this circulation is impeded or any of its channels are clogged by impurities which ought to be carried off, disease follows—fever or a disorder of liver kidneys, or scrofula, or dyspepsia. Communicated.

E. CITY, N. C., Noyember 6, 1871

To the Editor of the North Carolinian.

We are happy to learn that our friend Dr. Krebs and C. A. Reimensnyder of Sunbury Pa., have purchased a tract of land from W. H. Smith, Esq., adjoining Georgetown with the view of making some experiments in Trucking. As for Mr. Reimensnyder we cannot speak, he being an apparent stranger to us, but, his very actions and appearance indicate business But as for Dr. Krebs his energy and attention to business in connection with our worthy old friend J. W. Turner have wrought such a wonderful change in the general appearance of the old established Drug Store on the corner of Main and Road Streets, that it now stands second to none in the State of North Carolina, as to appearance and selection of their new stock of all kinds of goods belonging to their line of business. May their labors be appreciated by our good people.

Respectfully,
ENTERPRISE.

The Daily Enquirer, the leading organ of the Democracy of Ohio, contains an editorial expressing a preference for Thos. A. Scott, of Penn., as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. The article discusses Mr, Scott's fitness for the office at considerable length.

NATIONAL THANKSGIVING.—By the President of the United States of America:—A PROCLAMATION:—The process of the seasons has again enabled the husbandman to garner the fruits of successful toil. Industry has been generally well rewarded, we at peace with all nations, and tranquility, with few exceptions, prevails at home. Within the past year we have in the main been free from ills which elsewhere have afflicted our kind. If some of us have had calamities, these should be an occasion for sympathy with the sufferers, of resignation on their part to the will of the Most High, and of rejoicing to the many who have been more favored. I therefore recommend that on Thursday, the 30th day of November next, the people meet in their respective places of worship, and there make the usual annual acknowledgments to Almighty God for the blessing He has conferred upon them for their merciful exemption from evil, and invoke His protection and kindness for their less fortunate brethren whom, in His wisdom, He has deemed it best to chastize. In faith whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, this twenty-eighth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one, and of the independence of the United States the ninety-sixth.

By the President. U. S. GRANT.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

IMPAIRED VITALITY.—When you feel as if the vital powers were giving away, strength gone, spirits depressed, memory failing, appetite exhaustion stealing over every sense and paralyzing every energy, then is the time to rouse to it ie power vitality of nature, Dr. Walker's Vegetable Vine ar Bitters. Two properties they embody soon work a glorious renovation in the debilitated system and tae clouded mind.

THE ATMOSPHERE OF LOVE.—Is a pure sweet breath. This desideratum is one of the results of using Sozodont which not only invigorates and preserves the teeth, but renders the mouth as fragrant as a rose.

CHILDRENS LIVES SAVED FOR 50 CTS.—Every case of Croup can be cured when first taken, by Dr. Tobias' Venetian Liniment, warranted for 24 years, and not a bottle returned. It also cures Diphtheria, Dysentery, Colic, Sore Throat, Cuts, Burns and external Pains. Sold by the Druggists, Depot 19 Park Palace, New York.

THE BEST COSMETIC.—Burnett's Kalliston produces a fresh complexion, removes tan and freckles, and imparts a velvety softness to the skin. Results attending exposure to our rich upeable climate upon the skin, may be entirely obviated by its use. For sale by all druggists.

PRATT'S ASTRAL OIL.—Not the Cheapest, but Safest and Best Illuminating Oil for family use ever made. Burns in the ordinary kerosene lamp. Does not take fire, nor explode if the lamp is upset and broken. Send for Circular, Oil House of Charles Pratt established 1770, New York.

RISLEY'S LINIMENT.—Of Arnica, Hops, Carbolic Acid, acts as a universal external cure-all, acting on the nerves connected with the skin; It promptly relieves Neuralgia Pains, Cleaness and cures old sores and ulcers, flesh wounds, burns, bruises, sprains, &c. Sold everywhere at 50 cents. Morgan & Risley, Wholesale Druggists, New York. General Agents.

LAIRDS' BLOOM OF YOUTH.—A most delightful toilet preparation for beautifying the skin, has been established over ten years; during that time over one million ladies have used it; in every instance it has given entire satisfaction; removes all imperfections, tans, freckles and sunburns, giving a skin a youthful appearance. Sold at all Druggists and Fancy Goods Stores. Depot 5 Gold Street New York.

THANKS TO THE TIMELY DISCOVERY.—Of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, the hearts of many parents have been made glad by witnessing the beneficial effects which this remedy never fails to produce during the critical period of teeth ng.

CAREOLIC SALVE.—Nothing like it ever known before. Cures, cuts, burns, sores, wounds &c., like magic. Physicians speak of it in terms of the highest praise. Price 25 cents per box. John F. Henry. Sole Proprietor, 8 Collect Place, New York.

PHYSICIANS.—Who have prescribed Svapnia or Purified Opium use no other form of Opium in their practice.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR DYE.—If all his hairs were lives, Othello said, 'my great revenge hath stomach for them all." But hair that's grey or sandy, white or red, the ladies have no stomach for at all. Use Christadoro's Dye and the evil is remedied. Manufactory, 68 Maiden Lane, New York.

BE GUIDED BY WHAT YOU KNOW.—There is an old proverb which says, "Experience is the salt guide." To this guide the sick and ailing naturally turn when casting about for the means of relief. They enquire what a medicine has done for others, before they adopt it themselves. Of all the remedies and preventives in use, Rosetter's Stomach Bitters stands the test most triumphantly, and hence its immense popularity and vast sales. The sufferer from indigestion is sure to find some one among his friends who has been cured of this ailment by the famous vegetable stomachic. The victim of fever and ague, liver complaint, coastipation, nervous prostration, or general debility, has only to make inquiry in the neighborhood where he resides in order to discover what this standard restorative has effected in cases similar to his own. In the published testimony to its merits he will find a volume of proofs of its sanitary properties, which it is impossible for his common sense to resist. He tries it, and the effect it produces on his system adds another to the host of witnesses in its favor. Thus, its reputation, founded on facts, not assertions, continually grows and spreads. Charlatans and impostors, some of them mere local tricksters, and others who take a somewhat wider range, attempt to thrust into the hands and down the throats of invalids, their haphazard concoctions, as substitutes for the tonic which for so many years has been a medicinal staple throughout the United States, Spanish America, Canada, and the West Indies, but only succeed to a very limited extent. In this reasoning age, the people having ascertained what is really deserving of their confidence, decline, "running after strange gods."

A DIALOGUE.

"Hallow neighbor, where have you been and what is all that stuff you have there?"

"Why these are all goods of a variety of kinds. I only had a little money and wanted it go as far as possible, and heard of KEATON'S as a cheap store. I went there and laid out my funds and am satisfied that I saved at least TEN CENTS ON EVERY DOLLAR. I found another advantage—he has old experienced merchants for Clerks, and they know how to treat a customer as he should be. In fact it is all fair dealing: one need not be afraid of paying too high for any article, or of having a bad article put upon him.

"Why how is all this? It has only been about two weeks since I heard that 'this man Keaton only kept a little bit of grocery shop." I did not suppose it worth while to go there to look for a stock of anything."

"Yes, I heard the report, but I thought then as I do now that it was put in circulation by an envious infamous puppy for the purpose of injuring Keaton's trade or credit, or both. I'll warrant if you go there and look through and price his goods you will come to the same conclusion I have, that he keeps as near everything as any store in this town. He informs me that they were all purchased in the cities of Philadelphia and New York, and I see that they are being sold low, and that they are going off like "hot cakes."

KEATON'S is the place to go to save time and money in making purchases. Go and see for yourselves. 19—3t.

To the Farmers and Planters of Maryland and the South generally.

HORNER'S MARYLAND SUPER-PHOSPHATE.

WE COURT THE CHEMIST'S INQUIRY.

After 23 years' experience in the Fertilizing business, and after establishing a wide reputation for the purity and excellence of this Bone Dust, the subscriber has been induced to prepare a Phosphate suitable to the requirements and everyway worthy the attention of the Southern Farmer.

The "Maryland" is a rejuvinator and permanent improver of the soil. It stimulates equal to Peruvian Guano, and sustains equal to Bone, being composed almost entirely of these ingredients, with a very liberal percentage of Potash in the residuum. There is no adulterator or inferior article used—every particle of the Phosphate being of essential benefit to the land. Neither pains nor expense have been spared in its preparation, and we claim for it the greatest benefit to the farmer from the smallest outlay. For cotton, wheat, corn, and as a general stimulant and aliment for worn and impoverished land, there can be nothing superior. It is waranted to run as high in Ammonia and higher in Bone Phosphate than any other fertilizer in the market. Price $50 per ton, in new bags. No charge for delivery. FOUTZ'S
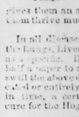
CELEBRATED
Horse and Cattle Powders.



To keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Rinderpest, Hollow Horn, etc. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk and cream twenty per cent. and make the butter firm and sweet. In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.

In all diseases of Swine, such as Coughs, Ulcers in the Lungs, Liver, &c., this article acts as a specific. By putting from one half a teaspoon to a paper in a barrel of swill the above diseases will be eradicated or entirely prevented. If given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.

Farmers' Clubs.

BY ALEXANDER HYDE.

This is the season for the organization of farmers' clubs, an institution which we look upon as promising more for the future of American agriculture than the costly and ostentatious cattle-shows, which too generally have degenerated into race-courses. We have been familiar for many years with the workings of the club, and the shows, and have studied their results with some care; and do not hesitate to pronounce in favor of the club, as having a more educated influence on the farmer and producing greater results on the farm. We would not be understood as opposing cattle-shows and fairs. They have done the farmer and manufacturers a great service. Since Elkanah Watson exhibited a merino buck and ewe in 1807, under the big elm on the common in Pittsfield, Mass., and there laid the foundation of the Berkshire Agricultural Society, and incidentally of woolen manufactures, the stimulus given to agriculture by the County and State societies that have been modeled after the old Berkshire has been so obvious that no one can fail to see and appreciate it. The annual exhibition of the best stock and the best products of the farm, the loom, and the machine-shop must have an educating effect on the farmers and mechanics who assemble to witness the display. Education may not be the object of the farmers and mechanics in coming together, but the inspection of good stock and improved machinery must have an educating influence, whether they intend it or not. The club brings the farmers together socially—brings mind in contact with mind, and thus sharpens and polishes. The life of the farmer is peculiarly an insolate one. He does not come in contact with his fellow-men enough; and, consequently, is apt to be a little rough in his manners, and a little slow, not to say rusty, in his mental operations. Let them meet once a week or once a fortnight during the long winter evenings, and discuss any agricultural topic, and it is wonderful to notice how much more active their minds become, and what an influence the discussions have on their farm management. Two heads are always wiser than one, and three heads are wiser than two. A man who seldom or never compares notes with his neighbors is apt to become conceited—to think that he knows it all, and that wisdom will die with him; that he has the best stock, the best mode of cultivation, and the best crops. But let him come into a farmers' club, and the conceit will be taken out of him. He will find that others know a thing or two, and in some matters are altogether his superiors; and, if he is not such a fool that his conceit cannot be pounded out, he will learn something, and be stimulated to make improvements.

Another advantage of the club is, that, farmers will not only learn to think, but learn to talk. It is one thing to think, and another to be able to express our thoughts in clear, concise, and intelligent language. Farmers are good thinkers, but are proverbially poor talkers, simply because they have little practice. In a club composed of their neighbors, where the subject of talk is one with which they are familiar, they learn to open their mouths and express themselves with clearness and force. In this respect the club does for farmers what the lyceum does for lawyers; and it is an advantage not to be lightly esteemed by those who wish to see the agricultural community exerting its due share of influence society. This capacity for talking exerts a reflex influence on thought; for in no position is a man's mind more active than when he rises to speak before an assemblage of his fellow-men. If his faculties are not palsied through fear, his thoughts glide now in this direction, now in that, as rapidly and gracefully as a skilled skater moves over smooth ice, and with as little apprent effort. But this skill comes only by practice. The skater makes awkward movements when he makes his first attempts.

Good neighborhood is promoted by the farmer's club. When men work alone all day and stay at home all the evening their sympathies with their neighbors have little opportunity for play, and they are apt to become selfish, sometimes even to cherish a petty morbid jealousy. But let them meet in the club, talk over their successes and failures, and, our word for it, they will be drawn to-ward each other, a generous emulation will be excited, and they will learn to rajoice in each other's woo.

We speak of what we have seen when we talk of farmer's clubs. For more than a dozen years we have been connected with one, and have noticed its effects. The agriculture of the community has greatly improved, thoroughbred stock and more perfect farm implements have been introduced, the brains as well as the farms of the members of the club have been cultivated, and when one of the number has been sick all have been ready to render a helping hand, and when one has died the widow and orphans have not been neglected.

The organization of a club need not be complicated. The more simple the better. A president and secretary, if they are live men, are all the officers required; and these officers should rotate annually, and be considered as worthy of the ambition of the farmer as the presidency of the county agricultural society. The meetings can be held in one central place, or circulate from house to house. The lattes is preferable, as it gives an opportunity to examine the farms and stock of the members; but is liable to this objection, that the ladies are wont to overdo in the matter of hospitality. Let every member feel that the success of the club depends upon his individual efforts, and it will succeed, no matter what may be the form of organization.

James Fish Jr., of New York was arrested on the 31st ult on a suit of Josephine Mansfield, on a civil action, to recover fifty thousand dollars of Mansfield's which Fish used but failed to account for. He gave bail in thirty-five thousand. A letter from Mansfield to Fish upbraids him for perfidy to her; and says it is a shame to compel her, who grew up with him from nothing to the now great Erie impressario, to vindicate herself in court. He refers to his scheme revealed to her four years ago of stealing the Erie books and of staying with him in Jersey City, and how, when he was buying the New York legislature, he said it would result in either a Fisk palace in New York or a stone palace at Sing Sing. He requested her if it was the latter to take a cottage outside the prison. She is willing to have affairs arbitrated by Wm. M. Evarts, but says if his power over courts is still supreme and Tammany still able to protect him, the reward may still be his.

There are 50,000 homeless and starving people in Wisconsin and Michigan as a result of the late terrible fires in that quarter. These people appeal to the generous at the present time as powerfully, if not more powerfully, than the sufferers in the great fire in Chicago did a couple of weeks ago.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE.

OF VALUABLE

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalisis and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where; and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the adaptability of the people, in great fertility, and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built to Weldon, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A Steam Saw and Grist Mill in the town of Nixonton 8 miles from E. City. This Mill has a fine wharf and store attached on deep navigable water, the engine is 40 horse power, and all in good order. It is one of the finest locations to be found any where for custom work, and for getting good saw logs easily and cheaply. Price $4,000 cash.

Adjoining the mill property is 40 acres of fine land on the River, with three houses, all for $1200. Near the same is a good two story dwelling and 13 acres of land for $2,000, and a good one story dwelling, with one acre of land for $300.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotank county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Also one other tract in Pasquotank county, containing 116 acres, within one mile of the town with fine buildings, mostly cleared and in cultivation. Price $25 per acre, one half cash, balance in 12 months.

A valuable site for a hotel at Nag's Head, 40 miles from Elizabeth City, and 50 miles from Edenton. This is situated immediately on the Ocean, and is a famous Summer resort for invalids, and those seeking health, comfort, and amusements during the summer months. It is in direct communication by steamboats and railroad with all parts of North Carolina, Virginia, and the North; and is equal in natural advantages to Newport, or Cape May. Visitors flock to this famous summer resort by hundreds and thousands, and a large amount of money can be made by a hotel. A charter has been obtained from the Legislature of N. C., for a joint stock company to build the hotel. There is now an old hotel on the spot, which could be cheaply repaired and bought for $3,000. This hotel, though imperfectly kept, cleared the proprietor last season, over $3,000. For a man or a company, having some capital, this is one of the finest chances to make money at hotel keeping to be found anywhere. The early attention of the public is invited to this property.

A fine steam saw and grist mill at Hertford, the county seat of Perquimans County, N. C., 18 miles from Elizabeth City. This mill has a fifty horse power engine, now in good running, two pair of best French burr stones, and two upright saws. The house has a brick basement, and the building is large and in good order. There is one and a half acres of land belonging to this property, and a good two story dwelling, and other out-houses. The section of country adjacent abounds in the finest yellow pine, cypress, ash, poplar, and other valuable timber. This property originally cost $15,000, and is now offered at forced sale for the low price of $3,500, $7,00, each, and the balance in six equal instalments, six months apart each with interest.

A fine farm and fishery in same county. The farm contains 400 acres of the finest land, lies immediately on Albemarle Sound where the water is 12 miles wide, and 18 to 20 feet deep, has got buildings, and fine neighborhood. The fishery is on the farm and goes with it. It has a new seine 2,500 yards long, and all the necessary boats, buildings, &c., (which cost over $15,000 two years ago.) The fishery alone, of a good season, will make from 5 to $10,000 profit to the owner. This property is offered at forced sale for the low price of $20,000, $7,000 cash, balance on easy times.

A store at South Mills, in Camden county, 20 miles from E. City, and 20 miles from Norfolk, lying on the canal where steamers pass daily. A fine chance for merchandize. Stock is large with dwelling above containing six rooms, is in first rate order, has office, kitchen, dairy, and other necessary outhouses. Goods to the amt. of $50,000 per annum can be sold here, and at large profits. A splended stand for a country retail store. Price $2,500 one third cash, balance in one and two years.

A valuable tract of land in Camden county, at South Mills, on the Dismal Swamp Canal, lying on the canal for two miles, containing over 900 acres of land—two-thirds cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good buildings, &c.; balance in valuable timber. Price $12,000, one-third cash, balance in one and two years, interest from January, 1871. This is a valuable farm for corn, wheat, and vegetables, and being midway between Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and located where steamers pass by the door daily, is a desirable and cheap property.

A fine farm of 600 acres within six miles of E. City, one mile from navigable water, and the best cotton farm in the State. It is also well adapted to raising corn and wheat. This farm has a splended two-story dwelling upon it, large barn, 40 by 60 feet, a large number of outhouses, by splended trees and shrubbery, is in a strong Union neighborhood, and altogether the most desirable place in the county. A little over one-half of this land is cleared, and the balance is covered with the finest yellow pine, poplar, ash and other timber. Price $30 per acre—one-third cash, balance in one and two years with interest. Title reserved.

Sixteen houses and lots in Elizabeth City, with good dwellings, out-houses, &c. Prices and terms reasonable.

A valuable farm in Perquimans county, N. C. near navigable water. Has a fine dwelling house with front and back porches, six splended barns and stables, all in first rate order. The farm is well adapted to raising corn, oats, wheat, cotton and clover. It is one of the finest farms in the county and is now in high cultivation, contains 350 acres of land, about three-fourths cleared and under cultivation. Price $10,000, one-third cash January 1, next balance in two equal annual instalments with interest at the rate of six per cent.

A farm of 370 acres 8 miles from town by water, and 12 miles by land, is offered for sale for $6,000 on easy payments. This tract of land lies immediately on the River which is 4 miles wide and washes the farm its whole length on one side, and a branch of the River one mile wide, binds it on one end. The land is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, peas, &c., lies high and dry, and is susceptible of the highest improvement. Fronting and looking over, as it does, two large sheets of navigable water, where steamers and sailing vessels are constantly passing, carrying freight and passengers to all parts of the country, its location and surroundings, are of the most fascinating and desirable character. There is a fishery on it ready for working a seine 2,500 yards long, and which commands a portion of both streams of water, and can be made immensely profitable. The price charged is low, and the purchase a very desirable one. The buildings consist of a good two-story dwelling and out-houses.

A tract of valuable land, containing 356 acres, with fine two story dwelling containing 9 rooms and cook-room. Servant's house with 3 rooms, large barns and stables, all necessary and convenient out-houses, 3 tenant-houses near town, and immediately on the River. About 100 acres of this land is in fine wood and timber, balance in a fine state of cultivation. It has 8,000 grape vines one year old, 3,500 peach, apple and dwarf pear trees, five acres in strawberries which yielded an immence profit this year, ten acres in Lawton and other rare varieties of black-berries, 15 to 20,000 young peach trees with other choice fruits too numerous to mention. This farm has a public road on one side, and the River on the other, where strangers come daily to the landings to receive the fruits and vegetables, and carry them down to Norfolk, Baltimore, Phila., or New York. The land is finely adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, and all other field crops.

The owner of this farm offers to sell in tracts, to suit purchasers, say in 50 to 100 acre tracts, and at prices ranging from 35 to $80 per acre, according to location, buildings, &c.

There is also on this farm a fine fishery, where a seine 1,000 yards long, and 20 feet deep is hauled every Spring. Herring, Shad, Rockfish, Sturgeon and other valuable fish, are caught by thousands at every draw of the seine. And the profits are frequently large. This fishery of itself is worth nearly as much as is charged for the whole property. The terms will be liberal. This is probably the finest opportunity offered any where for a profitable investment.

☞ Fishery has an office, and two houses for hands besides fish house. Then some 500 to 1,000 loads of best fish manure on hand, besides over 5,000 loads of compost made ready for use. This goes with the farm.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

LAND AND LUMBER COMPANY'S COLUMN.

LAND AND LUMBER COMPANY

OF

NORTH CAROLINA.

Incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina, December 17, 1868.

CAPITAL STOCK - - - - - $300,000,00.

General Office: Elizabeth City, N. C.

OFFICERS

J. M. WEED, President. C. W. SMITH, Treasurer.

C. H. ROBINSON, Secretary.

DIRECTORS

J. M. WEED, WM. UNDERWOOD, CHARLES W. SMITH, N. R. ZIMMERMAN AND G. B. THOMPSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE LAND AND LUMBER COMPANY having a large amount of Real Estate of their own to dispose of, and their business having increased to such an extent, they think it prudent to decline acting further as Commission Agents for the sale of lands belonging to others. They will however be glad at all times to furnish every facility to parties coming to Elizabeth City with a desire to look at the country and make purchases if they find it to their interest to do so.

The following list of property, owned by the Company, is offered for sale on the most reasonable terms. Their object now is to acquire a larger monied capital for the purpose of further developing their unimproved lands and carrying out their original design of increasing the Commerce and General Trade of Elizabeth City.

As there are others in the Commission Business, parties are referred to their advertisement for further information.

ELIZABETH CITY.

The following desirable list of Properties in Elizabeth City are offered at very reduced prices for cash or on time payments at rates which make any of them excellent investments for capitalists. We feel confident that this City is destined to become a large place and property will advance rapidly. Emigration is now tending Southernward and the feeling is in universal favor toward Elizabeth City.

A large two story dwelling known as the Parsonage, with fine double Piazza, front and back, large out kitchen, stables, carriage house, with 17 acres of ground well enclosed. This ground is all within the corporation of the City, and is well situated to lay out in building lots and make out of it ten fold the price asked for it.

A two-story dwelling containing ten rooms, 10,000 gallon cistern and all necessary out-houses, with large lot. Situated on Main Street. A Vacant Lot no better located and not so large as this was sold recently for $1600 cash.

A large brick store house and wharf situate on Water street; in E. City, comprising three lots with 400 feet of water front, permanently wharfed for the accommodation of large vessels. There is erected on these lots a large two-story brick building, 50 by 80 feet, well fitted up for a wholesale or retail trade at present occupied by the "Yankee Store."

A large wood store on west side of Water street 36 by 60, two stories high, being one of the best stands on Water street for merchandizing.

A House and Lot on Riverside Avenue. House 20ft front by 50 ft deep. Containing eight rooms with Pantry and Cellar, all well finished, modern style, and having all necessary out buildings. The lot contains a front of 400 ft, and would be a good location for a large shop or foundry as one whole side fronts on the water.

Also a large number of Wharf Lots, Mill Lots and Vacant Lots at very low prices, some of which are enumerated below. The Wharf Lots are 200ft deep and will be sold to any size desired along the River. Among them are some most eligible situations for Store Houses, Mills and Manufactories of any kind as there is a fine harbor immediately in front of them, having 30ft of water, sufficient for vessels of any capacity. Along Pennsylvania Avenue are offered some of the finest and choicest lots, for dwellings in town at prices varying according to location. This will be the finest street in town, is 80 feet wide, size of Lot 100ft front by 200ft deep. There are now a number of first class residences being erected on this street. Immediately in the vicinity of these Lots the Company have erected a large Planing Mill, Sash, Blind and Door Factory at a cost of near $20,000 and also their Saw Mill at a cost of near $15,000. That now is the proper time to invest in those Lots there can be no doubt, as they will double in value in a very short time. Lots not near so good as these, are now selling in other parts of the City at more than double the price asked for these.

VACANT LOTS.

Lots Nos. 150, 155, 158, 161, 163, 165, 167, 170. 172. 175, 178, 180, 182. 185, 187. 190' 193, 195, 198 and 200, situate on Pennsylvania avenue, in the new extension of Elizabeth City, all choice lots, intended for the better class of residences. Size of lots 100 feet front by 200 feet deep. Price varying, according to location, from $100 to $1000.

TOWN LOTS.

Lots Nos. 250, 253, 255, 256, 258, 261, 263, 266, 267, 268, 271, 283, 285. 287, 288, 289, 291, 296, 299 and 300, situated on various Streets in the new extension of Elizabeth City, size of lots 50 feet front by 100 feet deep, at prices varying from $25 to $100.

MILL LOTS.

Four Mill-Lots situated on Knobb's Creek, so that logs can be taken from the creek to the mill. These lots have 200 feet each of water front, and over 600 feet deep to Mill street, and are choice sites. The purchaser will also have the right of storage for logs in the boom.

PASQUOTANK COUNTY.

The Land and Lumber Company also offer for sale, one thousand acres of their timbered land along the Main Road leading from Elizabeth City to Hertford and Edenton, Said land heavily wooded, soil very rich and about four miles from Elizabeth City. This land will be sold in lots to suit purchasers and at the low price of ten dollars per acre.

They also offer a tract of three thousand acres in Lots to suit purchasers, near the Pasquotank River, ten miles from Elizabeth City and three miles from South Mills. This land is heavily set with wood and also has upon it a vast amount of saw timber, and has a most excellent soil. This is a fine location for a small Colony. There is now a Public Road running directly through it. This tract is offered at the low price of eight dollars per acre if sold to one party, or at only a fraction more if divided into small lots.

The Company will also sell their farm of 150 acres two miles from Elizabeth City. 125 acres cleared and under good cultivation, well fenced, having upon it two dwelling houses, one new and the necessary out buildings wanted on a farm, and will be sold on very reasonable terms.

Also another farm one mile from Elizabeth City containing one hundred acres, between thirty and forty acres cleared and under cultivation, the balance is now being cut off and is nearly ready to be cleared up and cultivated. This property is very desirable being so near the City though for reasons first given will be sold at a very low price.

We have a finely timbered tract of land situated on the Albemarle Sound twenty miles from Elizabeth City, containing 124 acres. Good timber land bordering on the water is valuable both for wood as well as saw timber as water trausportation affords a good margin for wood, say one dollar per cord. This will also make good farm land—will be sold for one thousand dollars.

Also one other tract of land containing 154 acres situated immediately on the Pasquotank River ten miles from Elizabeth City, valuable for wood, and is excellent farming lands, would be sold for six dollars per acre.

GATES COUNTY.

The Land & Lumber Company have a tract of 350 acres of timbered land one half mile from Chowan River and three miles from Winton the county seat of Hertford county. This body of land is well timbered and will be sold at the low price of three dollars per acre.

☞ The most direct and cheapest route is to go to Baltimore by N. C. R. R., then Bay Line steamer to Norfolk, Va., then steamer to Elizabeth City, N. C.

HEALTH! BEAUTY!!

Strong and Pure Rich Blood—Increase of Flesh and Weight—Clear Skin and Beautiful Complexion secured to all.

DR. RADWAY'S SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT

Has made the most astonishing cures; so quick, so rapid are the changes the body undergoes, under the influence of this truly wonderful medicine, that

EVERY DAY AN INCREASE IN FLESH AND WEIGHT IS SEEN AND FELT.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine, and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphili, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the system, Sore Eyes, Strumorous discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Theum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges. Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm and all wastes of the life principle, are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure—a cure is certain; for when once this remedy commences its work of purification, and succeeds in diminishing the loss of wastes, its repairs will be rapid, and every day the patient will feel himself growing better and stronger, the food digesting better, appetite improving, and flesh and weight increasing.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excels all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional, and Skin diseases; but it is the only positive cure for KIDNEY & BLADDER COMPLAINTS, Urinary, and Womb diseases, Gravel, diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinuence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white bone-dust, deposits, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the Small of the Back and along the Loins.

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects. They are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and a LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Caronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Cough, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They Invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the System in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist, there is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.
